It was ministers, at the intercession of the noblemen they were thus restored. ear However, the pardon was not without conditions of restraint, and articles for better behaviour. cKFi t.d Soon after, the seditious ministers were permitted to return, but not suffered to preach in their parishes. At the breaking A. D. 1597. up of the last general assembly, the king appointed another, to At I assemUy be held at Dundee, in May following. The main business of this meeting was to argue upon the questions undecided in the last. And here things were settled both to the satisfaction of the king and the Church. For instance, the question being put touching the convening of pastors with his majesty s consent, it was declared that the resolution in the affirmative was to reach all assemblies, either general or particular, authorized by his highness s laws,...
