Basically no phrases to clarify. It really is written in straightforward phrases rather than hard to understand. You will not sense monotony at any moment of your own time (that's what catalogues are for concerning if you ask me).

Books are now printed for their use. They are also able to write letters to each other by post, and to read what is thus written. They can cast up accounts with no other apparatus than common pins; and draw for themselves diagrams, with the same materials, for the study of geometry. Not only are books printed for their use, but also maps and music, which add greatly to their means of improvement; and besides the invention for writing what they themselves can read, a very simple instrument has been invented, by which they are able to write the common written character, in a style as small, and even more elegant than is generally found among those who see.
